Catherine has an exclusively criminal practice; the majority of which involves prosecuting rape and other serious sexual offences. In addition, she regularly prosecutes cases of serious offences of child cruelty. Catherine also defends in cases of a similar nature.

Catherine has a particular specialism in prosecuting serious cases, which involve young and vulnerable witnesses, and traumatised complainants. This extends to prosecuting cases of rape in the youth court, where both the defendant and complainant are under the age of 18 years, and often considerably younger than that.
